Icon Subjects.

Icons may represent anything from the figure of a saint to a historical scene, such as a martyrdom. Often they take the form of a diptych or a triptych or a polyptych crowded with angular or diminutive figures of saints or miniature scenes from the life of the Virgin or some other Biblical personage. From the number of scenes contained in these objects the peasants came to call them "churches," for there were not more pictorial representations within the church itself. Such icons may be of brass or of carved boxwood, being sometimes ornamented with enamel.

Durability of Ivory.

The durability of ivory is proved by the fact that billiard balls, which for the sake of curiosity have been made of well preserved mammoth ivory undoubtedly many thousands years old, were played with for several months by experienced players without its being noticed that the balls were not made of fresh ivory. Mammoth ivory is, as a rule, not as tough as fresh ivory.

Source of Discontent.

"Then you don't believe in higher education for women?"
"Certainly not. I think it's a shame to even teach 'em how to read. If a woman couldn't read the bargain advertisements she wouldn't be so unhappy over the lots of things she can't afford to buy."—Catholic Standard and Times.

FEMALE WEAKNESS

542 1-2 Congress St.
PORTLAND, MAINE, Oct. 17, 1902.
I consider Wine of Cardui superior to any doctor's medicine I ever used and I know whereof I speak. I suffered for nine months with suppressed menstruation which completely prostrated me. Pains would shoot through my back and sides and I would have blinding headaches. My limbs would swell up and I would feel so weak I could not stand up. I naturally felt discouraged for I seemed to be beyond the help of physicians, but Wine of Cardui came as a God-send to me. I felt a change for the better within a week. After nineteen days treatment I menstruated without suffering the agonies I usually did and soon became regular and without pain. Wine of Cardui is simply wonderful and I wish that all suffering women knew of its good qualities.

Wilhelmina Sawyer
Treasurer, Portland Economic League

Periodical headaches tell of female weakness. Wine of Cardui cures permanently nineteen out of every twenty cases of irregular menses, bearing down pains or any female weakness. If you are discouraged and doctors have failed, that is the best reason in the world you should try Wine of Cardui now. Remember that headaches mean female weakness. Secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui today.

THE WHITE HOUSE.

President Madison's Part in This Naming the Executive Mansion.
Just how the White House came to be so designated is a question on which historians differ. A local historian in Washington thinks that the burden of proof tends to give credit for the name to President Madison.

The structure was made of Potomac river freestone, and the capitol proper was built of the same stone. At the time the British burned the executive mansion they did a lot of other damage, and the country was pressed for money to repair the same. The walls of the mansion were only slightly damaged, other than being blackened by smoke. Money was scarce, and congress made an appropriation to have the outside of the house painted. White was selected as the best color. Madison in a letter to a personal friend wrote: "Come in and see me at any time. You will always find me in at the White House."

The executive mansion may have been called the White House before that time, but this investigator says that he has never been able to find any record of it. If Madison did not officiate at the christening it has been emphatically stated by the historian that he took a prominent part in publishing the fact that the White House was to be the name of the mansion. Up to the time of President Madison the executive mansion, which is the legal name for it, was generally spoken of as the president's house, but since then it has been known by its permanent name of White House.

LIES THE MAPS TELL

NOT ABOUT LOCATION, BUT IN THE MATTER OF NAMES.

For Instance, Greenland Isn't Green by Any Means, Nor Is the Black Sea Black—The German Ocean Isn't German, and It Isn't an Ocean.

In few places will you find more healthy, robust lies to the square inch than an average map, and this is the document that is daily placed in the hands of our young.

Begin up north and take Greenland. Was there ever a more flagrant imposture than the name of this country? It isn't green and never was green and never will be green. Here is what the gazetteer says about this "green" country:

"It is high and rocky and barren. It is covered with eternal snow and glaciers. July is the only month in which there is no snow." There's a picture of greenness for you!

How did it get called green? Well, by an unscrupulous falsehood on the part of a tenth century reprobate called Eric the Red of Iceland. This ancient shark accidentally ran against the ice patch in question with a few other Icelanders of his own kidney. He cut back to Iceland and "boomed" it for all he was worth.

He called it Greenland and to delude the Iceland investors and general public said it was a wonderful green country, which he wished them to visit with their families and take shares in some mines he had discovered. Well, some of the deluded creatures went. They never returned to good old Iceland any more.

But there are plenty of equally gross impostures. Take the Black sea, for instance. Why black? Who said it was black? It is no more black than it is pink or purple. The ancients called it the "Euxine"—which means "In-hospitable"—sea. That was another good old fiction. It is not at all an inhospitable sea, for, having no tides, it is one of the easiest to navigate. Now and again there are big storms, just to give the sea a realistic touch, but generally speaking it isn't black, and it isn't inhospitable.

The Cape of Good Hope! Good Hope, indeed! Ask anybody who has been round that promontory what they think of it. The only "good hope" they experience is a good hope that they will soon get ashore, for it is one of the roughest and stormiest places known to mariners. What we should call a cyclone on the North sea would be smiled at round the cape as a bit of breeze. The gentleman who called it Cape of Good Hope was a crude sort of humorist. He made his money in the king business, styling himself John II. of Portugal. His faithful subject Diaz discovered it and told his majesty that he had called it the "Stormy cape." But the king would have hoped Diaz would do something else round the other side next time he went to the cape, so he called it Cape of Good Hope.

Why the Dead sea? The locality may be as dead as a doornail, but the sea itself is pretty lively. It is the saltiest piece of water on the face of the earth, ten times as salt as the ocean. Of course there is no particular vegetation roundabout, and the sea is free from monsters, but that doesn't make the sea itself dead. It is really a most live sea.

Why English channel? It's no more English than it's French. The French themselves don't call it English at all, but simply "La Manche."

Then was ever a more absurd name given to that bit of water which separates England from Holland, called the German ocean? Why German? There's nothing German about it and never has been. Dutch, Belgian or British, if you like, but not German. Then why ocean? It is not an ocean at all. There is a piece of water that size between Australia and Tasmania, if anything rather wider, which they call a strait—Bass strait. Just fancy the absurdity of teaching the child mind to think that crossing to Ostend or Antwerp is an ocean trip.

North sea, too, is absurd. Why north? It is not north of anything in particular. It is east of Britain, west of Holland, Belgium and Denmark and south of Norway and Sweden. It is not a north sea at all.

There are some islands in the Pacific—why Pacific, by the way? Where does the peace come in on that desolate, typhoony, billowy, tidal wave wilderness called the Friendly Islands? Look at the encyclopedia's version of their friendliness: "They are volcanic, and earthquakes are frequent. Islands are frequently upheaved. Hurricanes are constant." Even the friendly natives! The sole reason the islands were called Friendly is because when Captain Cook visited them he found the natives had not got any arms. So they were friendly. No doubt! But when the missionaries tried to convert them they had a different tale to tell. For thirty years they endured "a perilous struggle with the savage paganism of the inhabitants."

I could call your attention to dozens more of cases of monstrous mendacity on the part of the map. But the editor has just taken away my atlas.—Pearson's Weekly.

COURTSHIP IN FRANCE.

Lovemaking Begins After the Wedding Bells Have rung.

The word "courtship" has no equivalent in the French tongue, because the thing itself does not exist. Stolen tete-a-tetes, even furtive kisses, may, of course, be indulged in, but only under a modified chaperonage, the half shut eye of parents or guardians. No young French lady would be permitted, for instance, to undertake a cycling expedition with her future husband. Still less could she take train with him for the purpose of visiting relations in the country were the journey of half an hour's duration only. Lovemaking begins with the honeymoon.

For centuries, alike in the humblest as well as the highest ranks, matrimonial settlements have kept family possessions together in France and enriched village notaries!

No sooner was serfdom abolished than the peasants followed bourgeois example, dowering their daughters and securing the interest of their sons by law. In provincial archives exist many of these documents, the rustic bride's portion consisting of furniture, clothes, money and sometimes cattle or a bit of land. The archives of the Aubes contain the marriage contract of a skilled day laborer (manouvrier) and widow whose property was double that of his own. The deed secured him joint enjoyment and ownership. I cannot here, of course, enter into the intricacies of the French marriage laws. There is the regime dotal, which safeguards the dowry of the wife. There is the regime de la communauté, which makes wedlock strictly a partnership as far as income and earnings are concerned. And there are minute regulations as to the provision for children and widows. The latter are always sacrificed to the former.—Cornhill.

SEQUELS TO STORIES.

As a Rule They Are Not as Good as the First.

The question of sequels was under discussion in a literary gathering the other day, and the consensus of opinion was decidedly against them. It was even roundly maintained that no sequel had ever been a success from the literary point of view. Some one demurred and suggested "Paradise Regained," but that suggestion, greeted with a burst of laughter, practically determined the argument. "Paradise Regained" was a distinct falling off from "Paradise Lost." It might even be declared a dignified, dignified failure. No; Milton's sequel was no exception to the rule.

If there be a rule, are there any exceptions that prove it? Stevenson's "Catriona" was not up to the level of "Kidnapped." Mr. Anthony Hope wrote a better book in "The Prisoner of Zenda" than he did in "Rupert of Hentzau." Wise authors never undertake sequels. Once upon a time Mr. Rider Haggard was tempted to adventure a sequel to "She," but repented at discretion. It is altogether a different matter when successive books include the same character. Thackeray used that trick in "Pendennis" and "The Newcomes," but in no sense is the latter a sequel to the former. In a way Thackeray's novels may be said to constitute a chain right down from "Esmond." The links subside, but there is no continuity of narrative which defines a sequel proper.

He who will compare the respective merits of Zola's "L'Assommoir" and "Nana." There does not appear to be much to choose between them, but undoubtedly the earlier book has been more popular. Zola's habit, as is well known, was to keep the same families in his various treatises, for to him they were specimens of natural history and mightily portentous. Contrast with Zola our immortal Fielding, who began one of his novels by way of a parody of Richardson. It would be interesting to collect into one volume the stories of the masterpieces. In what circumstances were the great books of the world written? Think of Dumas pere and his firm of assistants! Well, Pope preceded him and farmed out his translation of Homer. That was a conscienceless thing to do. A work of art is not a contractor's job. But then Pope's Homer was not a work of art. But Dumas! Grub street lies in Paris too.—London Mail.

A Japanese Shrine.

A romantic custom of the Japanese is described in the "Kokoro" of Lafcadio Hearn. It is narrated that those who are anxious for the safety of absent ones repair to the mountain of Dakeyama to perform a singular rite. There is a shrine at the summit to commemorate a princess of antiquity who daily watched hopelessly until she pined and died, when her body was changed into stone. One who looks with the eyes of a believer still sees the princess on Mount Dakeyama in the shape of a perpendicular rock. Before her shrine are heaps of pebbles, and those who ascend to pray for the safe home coming of one they love take a pebble away with them as a talisman. And when at last reunited with the beloved, another pilgrimage is made to the shrine on Dakeyama to replace the pebble, with a handful of others, in devotional gratitude.

Carlyle's View of Macaulay.

In one of his letters Carlyle says of Macaulay, the historian: "We have had Macaulay for two days. He was a real acquisition while he lasted and gave rise to much good talk, besides a quantity of indifferent, which he himself executed—a man of truly wonderful historical memory, which he has tried in really extensive reading and has always lying ready, with this or the other fact, date or anecdote on demand; in other respects constantly definable as the sublime of commonplace, not one of whose ideas has the least tincture of greatness or originality or any kind of superior merit except neatness of expression."

One of Them For the Company.

A well known comedian celebrated for his eccentricities boarded a street car the other day and duly paid his fare upon demand. After riding a block or so farther he produced another nickel and tendered the same to the passing conductor.

The honest conductor refused the proffered coin, while the actor vehemently protested his desire to pay his fare. "You have given me your fare already," argued the man in uniform. "I know," responded the comedian, "but this is for the company."

Every one laughed excepting the discomfited conductor, who had omitted to register the first collection.—New York Times.

Your Dear Old Mother.

Young man, did you ever put your arms around your dear old mother, who has loved and cared for you, and tell her that you love her and are grateful for the tears she has shed and the prayers she has offered for you? She may think that you love her without your assuring her that you do, but it costs you but little effort to tell her, and your words may bring more joy and sunshine to her heart than you ever dreamed of.—Exchange.

A Wonderful Memory.

Miss Antique—I remember, when I was a little tot, I could play several pieces on the piano by ear. Miss Snappey—How very remarkable! Miss Antique—That I could play by ear? Miss Snappey—No, dear. That you can remember it.

Shifting the Dared Identity.

"Bog pardon. I thought you were some one else." "Oh, no, I'm all right. It is you who are some one else."—Indianapolis Journal.

Nothing can bring you peace but the triumph of principles.—Emerson.

Saw Himself.

"Honest, now, Jones, did you see a burglar in your room when you called the police?" "No. My wife had shifted the mirror in my room, and I didn't know it."—Detroit Free Press.

The crown of womanhood is motherhood. But uneasy lies the head that wears the crown or anticipates this coronation, when there is a lack of womanly strength to bear the burdens of maternal dignity and duty. The reason why so many women sink under the strain of motherhood is because they are unprepared. I unhesitatingly advise expectant mothers to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, writes Mrs. J. W. G. Stephens, of Mila, Northumberland Co., Va. The reason for this advice is that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best preparative for the maternal function. No matter how healthy and strong a woman may be, she cannot use "Favorite Prescription" as a preparative for maternity without gain of health and comfort. And it is the women who are not strong who best appreciate the great benefits received from the use of "Favorite Prescription." For one thing it gives the baby's advent practically painless. It has in many cases reduced days of suffering to a few brief hours. It has changed the period of anxiety and struggle into a time of ease and comfort. The proprietors and makers of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $50 for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, of Buffalo, N. Y., ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1904

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For President—Theodore Roosevelt
 Vice President, Chas. W. Fairbanks

TO FIRST VOTERS.

There are many citizens within the limits of Amador county who will cast their first vote at the coming national election. A large proportion are young men, who have just arrived at the voting age. Others are naturalized citizens, who have recently been admitted to the full enjoyment of the rights of citizenship. But whether native-born or naturalized, it behooves these citizens on the threshold of their voting career to consider well the responsibilities and duties they are about to assume. "With which political organization shall I cast my lot," is a question that comes home to each one of them. To some the old argument will be used: "You must tread in the footsteps of your parents. Your father belonged to such a party, you cannot do otherwise than vote the same way." To the man who is able to do his own thinking, this line of reasoning will appear anything but satisfactory. He will want to get back of this argument and ask himself, "Was my father right when he made his political home with this or that party?" Upon the answer returned by his conscience his course of action will be governed, assuming that he is composed of that material that impels him to act in accordance with his judgment.

To the other class of new voters the appeal will be made: "The bulk of the citizens from your native land have joined the republican or democratic party, as the case may be. You can hardly afford to choose a different path. It is important in order to secure political prestige and future recognition, that the people of your nationality present a united front politically. Never mind about quibbling over the issues that divide political parties; let us stand together, and thereby consult our own individual interests. We can more surely gain our proper share of the spoils of office by presenting an unbroken front."

Voters do not change politics readily. As the first vote is cast the chances are the voter will remain with the same party thereafter. It requires more independence of character to break loose from political ties that have existed for years, than to weigh the arguments pro and con in the first place, and start from convictions arrived at after careful study.

We ask these young voters to look into the political history of the two great parties, and decide the matter dispassionately and intelligently. Let them consider what the republican party has done for the nation; the principles for which it has fought; the mighty progress the country has made in all the elements that go to make up the sum total of prosperity under its guidance; the liberal laws it has placed upon the statute books under the influence of which the United States has advanced as no other nation has done in the same space of time since the world began. A party must be judged not merely by what it advocates, but the practical results of the application of its policy. On this proposition the republican party asks to be judged. Leaving out of the question the great issues involved in the war of the rebellion—issues that have been settled irrevocably in favor of the stand taken by the liberal party—there still remains a wide field for inquiry. During its 40 years of almost uninterrupted rule, the population has nearly tripled; the wealth per capita has also tripled. Our export trade is about five times as large as it was in 1856. Our imports have grown three fold. The waste lands have been filled up with happy and contented homes under the influence of homestead laws. No political party has ever existed that accomplished so much in the same space of time. Political opponents will try to attribute this magic growth to other than the true causes. Indeed, the last democratic convention held at St. Louis has candidly admitted that the stand of the republican party on the money question has been vindicated by the act of God in providing gold in the earth in sufficient quantities to make it the sole standard of values. What a compliment to the foresight and judgment of the republican party.

If on the other hand the voter candidly looks into the record of the democratic party he will find that for the past fifty years it has been merely an organization of opposition. It has been antagonistic to every forward step taken by the party in power which has contributed to the wonderful development of the country. The protective tariff, the homestead laws, the national banking system, the resumption of specie payment, the extension of the national domain, all were opposed as inimical to the welfare of the nation. Its cherished ideas of governmental policy have gone down in defeat. It ransacks the grave of the past for its inspiration. What progressive measure of any note has it championed and carried to victory within the past half century. In its last national convention it surrendered about every idea for which it had previously contended. It has led its devotees into the wilderness, and left them there to shift for themselves. To cap the climax the party leaders in the campaign now on are telling the people they need not be afraid of an industrial panic in the event of Parker's election, because there will be a republican senate at any rate as a bulwark against unwise democratic legislation. This is the party that is now appealing to be entrusted with national affairs. Between these two great parties what intelligent first voter will long hesitate before reaching a determination to cast his lot with the republicans.

PARKER AND FREE TRADE.

There are loud wails of horror in that portion of the Parker press which looks upon tariff reform as a sacred thing because of President Roosevelt's flat-footed declaration in favor of the protective system as something so firmly established in the minds of the American people that it is folly to think of changing it.

Well, what is Parker going to do about it? Will he come out in favor of immediate and radical tariff revision? Will he take his stand squarely on the St. Louis platform, which declares that "Protection is robbery?" Will he follow the lead of the New York Reform Club and make that view of the tariff the leading issue of the campaign?

It will be interesting if he does, for he took occasion in his speech of acceptance to say that he was in favor of moderate and deliberate tariff reduction, but he begged to assure the American people that they need have no apprehension, because the senate would be continued to be controlled by the republicans for four years longer, and the democrats, if put in power, could not do any harm anyway. Do the free trade worshippers wish to prove him into making himself ridiculous?

DON'T REMOVE A SHINGLE.

Under the stimulus and with the protection of wise legislation in congress, inaugurated by the republican party, the country has made great progress in material ways in the past ten years. It has required ten years to bring us to our present condition of prosperity. The voters must realize that a considerable portion of that ten years' work could be undone, practically, in a few moments of time required to cast a democratic ballot for congressman and president, if it should turn out that a majority of the votes cast were democratic.

Everyone knows it is easier to tear down than to build. It is so in politics as well as in physics. The voters who have built up the republican legislative structure should be careful that they don't remove so much as a shingle from the roof this fall. And that admonition applies as well to the independent and the gold democrat as to the republicans, for it was through their united efforts that a republican congress has been maintained in power long enough to accomplish this work.

All of which means that the wisest course is to elect a republican house of representatives this fall.

A. Caminetti opened his campaign last Saturday at Placerville. Caminetti is a worthy exponent of the party that tries to fool the people all the time. He always has some pet ideas, with which he imagines he can hoodwink the voters. This trip it is Japanese exclusion, which is all very well in its place. But why does he not put up the barriers against undesirable immigration from Europe? He also advocates a national university, and that the high schools throughout the county be aided with funds from the national treasury. Just think of the raiding excursions against the treasury surplus which this plan would encourage. Then he is in favor of tariff revision, in accordance with the democratic idea that "tariff protection is robbery." Gillette is a safe man identified with a sane party. Caminetti, like the party behind him, is full of vagaries of the wildest character.

THE FAMOUS LITTLE PILLS.

For quick relief from Bilelessness, Sick Headache, Torpid Liver, Jaundice, Dizziness, and all troubles arising from an inactive or sluggish liver, DeWitt's Little Early Risers are unequalled.

They act promptly and never gripe. They are so dainty that it is a pleasure to take them. One to two act as a mild laxative; two or four act as a pleasant and effective cathartic. They are purely vegetable and absolutely harmless. They tonic the liver.

A Forty-Minute Visit Each to Two of Our Rural Schools.

To many of our readers forty minutes would seem an insufficient time in which to form any rational idea of the character of work being done by either teacher or pupil, but to the person who has spent many years of his life in the schoolroom it is ample time for him to determine to a considerable degree the ability of the teacher to impart knowledge and the aptitude of the pupil to understand the instruction given. Realizing as I do that no two teachers follow out the same line or plan of instruction, I make it a rule upon entering the school room as a visitor to lay aside all individual methods and adapt myself for the time being to those used by the teacher in charge. This I did on Monday, the 19th inst., when I entered the cosy little building prepared by the citizens of New York Ranch district as a suitable place for their children to receive instruction at the hands of competent teachers, to enable them the better to go forth into the busy world and cope successfully with other business men and women.

School had just called after the noon hour. Teacher and pupils had noticed that I was on the grounds and would probably enter in a few moments. They did not wait for me. When I walked in all were busy. The teacher stopped long enough to greet me cordially, ask me to be seated, and was off again in a moment to assist a youngster in the back seat who seemed to be puzzled over some difficult problem in arithmetic. The next minute she was helping a studious girl in sentence-building, and in less time than it takes to tell it she was discussing a story with a boy who some day may become one of our great philosophers or inventors. This was continued for 15 minutes, during which time I observed that the walls were well filled with maps and decorated with flags and bunting. The building was suitably furnished, and the seats, teacher's desk and library case had been properly cared for. The windows were clean, and it appeared that every boy and girl had combed his or her hair just before entering the room. Recitations were now in order, and it seemed to me as though the little ones took pride in reciting in my presence. They understood their work well, and if any one expressed a doubt on any point the teacher gave an explanation that could be easily understood. I entered into conversation with the larger classes, and found them to be readers, observers, talkers and thinkers—the very persons whom the public school expects, or tries to make, of all its pupils.

Encouraged by trustees and teacher the pupils had given entertainments and fenced the lot, dug a well, and built a beautiful well house. Ten boys and ten girls being taught by one, who not many years ago was a student in the public school, and later a graduate of a higher institution of learning.

Miss Daisy E. Larsen may well feel proud that she is at the head of one of the great educational institutions of the state—a successful public school.

Tuesday afternoon I visited the Pine Grove school, but arrived too late to see all the pupils, as the two lower grades had been dismissed. Thirty-one well dressed, intelligent looking boys and girls were present however, and although the teacher gave her entire attention to the recitations the best of order prevailed. It was the first opportunity I have had to listen to a recitation from the newly adopted primary geography, and the class showed great interest in the subjects under discussion. The teacher stood ready and willing at all times to give information independent of the text book.

The ninth grade, consisting of five girls and one boy, gave an interesting recitation in civil government. The girls all agreed that if they were ever given the elective franchise they would exercise it. Questions by pupils and teacher brought out understandingly every phase of the subject contained in the lesson. Pine Grove will no doubt have a fine graduating class in June. The trustees have done their part, and supplied the school with the best of veniences. Miss Maud E. Read, the teacher, graduated but a few years ago from a near-by grammar school. She has since taken a Normal course and is a natural teacher. Here are two schools side by side provided for by progressive teachers, differing materially in their methods of instruction, but both accomplishing the same results.

LOCAL NEWS OF THE WEEK

PIONEER FLOUR always has been and still is the best.

New waitings at Redlick's.

J. F. Wilson, Dentist. Hours 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Phone Main 404. Jackson, Cal.

Ravioli and chicken dinner at the Union House next Sunday. Will deliver orders to any place in town.

Pete Podesta, who has been laid up with fever of an intermittent character, is convalescent, and expects to be around again in a few days.

Lucot and Ford have recently received orders for two four-horse Studebaker wagons. This does not look as though the ranchers and teamsters feared the railroad to any great extent.

New flannellets at Redlick's.

Deputy sheriff Jackson went to Stockton yesterday on important official business. He will probably be away several days.

Mrs. T. Freglia, who has been suffering from typhoid fever for several weeks, is still dangerously ill. Last Friday a severe hemorrhage occurred, which left the patient in a very weak condition.

Ladies' suits, skirts and cloaks made to your own order. Satisfaction and fit guaranteed. See samples at Redlick's.

V. Chichizola is building a handsome residence just north of the Jackson Gate store. It will be, when completed, by far the finest dwelling in that growing little burg.

James Harmon, a brother of Chas. E. Harmon of New York Ranch, arrived in Jackson from St. Louis Wednesday evening. He intends to make Amador county his home.

The new rectory of the Episcopal church is fast approaching completion. It is located on the church lot on the Hamilton addition. It is now receiving the finishing touches at the hands of the painters.

The board of supervisors will meet next Monday. It will devote upon them to make all necessary arrangements for the election, by issuing the proclamation, and appointing polling places and officers of election.

Mrs. Hurst, of the Globe hotel, left Sunday morning for San Francisco to see her husband, who is under treatment in one of the hospitals of that city. He is not improving much. It is the intention to bring him home the latter part of this week.

John Chinn and wife returned from San Francisco last Saturday. He will soon move his family into his new dwelling house on Stump street. While he was in San Francisco he made arrangements for the opening of his place of amusement known as the Exchange Music Hall.

Maurice Plasse came down from Silver Lake early this week with a portion of his stock. He left the mountain range last Friday. At that time it was storming furiously, and snow covered the ground to the depth of eight inches. He left again Tuesday for the mountains, for the purpose of bringing down the rest of the cattle.

The amount raised by public subscription for the benefit of Mrs. Quinn, whose husband was killed with two other miners, while engaged in sinking at the Argonaut mine last month, was $227.50. The funeral expenses were paid by Mr. Deget, and the Miners' Union being relieved of the funeral expenses, gave the sum to the widow, amounting to $70.

There are but two prisoners in the county jail. These are kept busy by sheriff Norman in cleaning up around the jail. This week the basement of the hall of records has been treated to a coat of whitewash—the first it has had since it was built. It makes a great improvement, especially to the room used for sleeping apartment for jurors. That room is as light and airy and wholesome as anyone could wish for.

J. J. Nichols was thrown from his horse last Saturday near the planing mill just north of town. He was driving cattle from the mountains to Jackson valley. His horse got scared, and fell. Nichols was thrown against a rock, cutting an ugly gash above his nose and otherwise bruising him up considerably. He came to town, and after getting his injuries attended to by a doctor continued his trip to the valley.

Frank L. Pitt, of Boulder Creek, Santa Cruz county, accompanied by his wife, has been spending a few days in Amador county. They were up in the mountains, and were caught in the storms that prevailed last week. They leave for home to-day, but will probably return and spend the winter in Amador county. Mr. Pitt has sold his shingle and planing mill in Santa Cruz county.

J. M. Slow came down from Antelope Tuesday last to get medical advice and aid regarding his eye. It seems he had been suffering from a felon on one of the fingers of the right hand. A week or so ago he rubbed his right eye, thoughtlessly, with the affected hand. Soon thereafter the eye became painful and commenced to swell up. When he reached Jackson the eye was completely closed, and the whole side of his face very much swollen. The inflammation extended somewhat to the left eye. The doctor told him the eye was poisoned by contact with the affected finger. He started for home Wednesday. He reports that the storm last week at Antelope was something terrible. The rain fell in torrents, and the thunder and lightning were such as he had never witnessed in that region before. Large quantities of mining timbers are still in the mountains awaiting shipment to the mines as soon as the roads will again permit of hauling.

The saloon of Ransom Sanders on Main street was closed yesterday. For rent notices are posted on the premises to-day.

Ed. Hurst, of the Globe hotel, returned home Thursday evening, accompanied by his wife. He stood the trip as well as could be expected.

If you want a good harness at reasonable prices call at A. Basso's, Jackson.

Rev. E. A. Winning, the newly appointed pastor of the M. E. church, arrived in Jackson with his family Thursday evening. He will preach next Sunday morning and evening.

It is reported that U. S. Gregory has sold his interest in the variety store business of the Freeman Estate store to Chas. H. Freeman. The store will hereafter be conducted by the two brothers, C. W. and C. H. Freeman.

Mrs. J. L. Sargent and her sister, Miss Kate Quinn, of Chicago, who has been visiting at Middle Bar for several weeks, left this week for Lodi and other points. Miss Quinn will thereafter leave for her home in the east.

It is rumored that Jackson is to be honored with a third butcher shop. Dave Mattley, who is a large land owner and cattle raiser, has leased the stone building on Main street belonging to the Gazera Bros., and heretofore used as a saloon, and will convert the same into a butcher shop. He expects to be ready for business some time this month. The people are looking for a tumble in retail prices of meat.

A new Upright Piano for sale at a great bargain. Inquire at this office.

See the ad of the Beretta Optical Company on our first page. A first-class optician will be at Boydston's pharmacy on October 12. Consultation and examination free. Glasses fitted to any eyesight. Any person finding difficulty in being fitted with suitable glasses will do well to consult the expert of this company. It is intended to visit Jackson regularly every month.

When you wish the finest flavored coffee and teas, remember that W. J. Nettles keeps only the best.

Antone Badaraca was released on bonds early this week. He has been confined in the county jail for several weeks, awaiting trial on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Bonds were fixed at $2000. He gave the required amount of bonds, with M. Barsi and G. Badaraca, his father, as securities, and was thereupon released until trial.

Good mines of all kinds wanted. Inquiring parties. S. C. Trayner, 4 Sutter St., San Francisco, Cal.

Mrs. Rebecca Fetter of Sutter Creek died in San Francisco on Wednesday, September 21, after a short illness. She went to the city about a month ago for a change. She was then in usual good health. In a few days she took a cold, which settled on her lungs and developed into a fatal illness. The interment took place at the Jewish cemetery of San Francisco. Deceased leaves one son, S. Fetter, who is now left in full charge of the Sutter Creek dry goods store. Also two married daughters, Mrs. Higgins of Jamestown, and Mrs. Simon of Oakland.

Fresh pickled olives of the season just received; 65c per gallon. Nettles' Market.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Spagnoli left Monday morning for San Francisco. From thence Mrs. Spagnoli started Tuesday evening for Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, to visit her father, A. V. Kerr, and her sister, Mrs. Dr. Sands, both residents of that city. She expects to be away about two months, and on her return trip will visit the St. Louis fair. Mr. Spagnoli accompanied her only as far as the city. He will return home this week.

Mrs. E. Burns of Amador City, who has experienced a serious attack of typhoid fever, is now convalescent and able to be around again. Dr. O'Connor was the attending physician, and the treatment of cold baths which he adopted proved highly efficacious, leading to the speedy recovery of the patient. James Chichizola, son of T. A. Chichizola, is critically ill with this same malady. Several doctors were in consultation over the case last Monday. This is about the only remaining serious case of typhoid now in Amador.

Give us daily some good bread. Pioneer Flour makes the best.

A person traveling along our highways can hardly fail to notice the number of men packing their blankets, seeking work. They are of the laboring class, and probably have been attracted to this county by the large works in progress at Electra, and also the railroad building between here and Ione. While there is no scarcity of work, it is evident that common laborers are not so hard to get as a year or more ago. At the same time there is no lack of employment for mechanics—such as carpenters, masons, and other artisans.

A man named L. Martinelli jumped his board bill at the Kennedy boarding house last week. He was owing $20 for board, and was persuaded that it would be cheaper to evade payment than to settle. He left on the 22d and went to Sacramento. The sheriff's office was notified, and a complaint sworn to. The telephone and telegraph lines were out of kilter at the time owing to the thunder storm. Nevertheless word was sent to the police authorities at Sacramento with such a description of the runaway that his recognition was an easy matter. He was arrested as soon as he reached Sacramento. Sheriff Norman went to the city next day and came up with his man Saturday evening. He concluded that it would be better to settle up promptly, and planked down $35.60 to pay the $20 board bill and costs. It doesn't pay to try to beat boarding houses around here.

St. Augustine's church—Divine service Sunday morning next. Holy communion will be celebrated. All cordially invited to attend.

Rev. Oliver Welch, who has been a visitor at the Murphy place at Butte in this county on several occasions, was recently ordained to the priesthood of the Catholic church in New York. He is announced to conduct his first mass at St. Mary church in San Francisco next Sunday. Miss Ella Murphy went to the city this week, and will attend the service.

Rev. F. A. Morrow has purchased the Goldsworthy dwelling house on the east side of Broadway, next to Perovich's boarding house on the south. He moved his family therein yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Goldsworthy will occupy a portion of the dwelling house of F. M. Pense on Broadway.

Antone Silva, who while an inmate of the county hospital several years ago, was sent to relatives in Santa Clara county at the public expense, returned to Jackson last week. He is very feeble, and has returned with the expectation of again being taken into the hospital. He at one time owned the business premises on Main street, Jackson, now owned by John Chinn.

Read the alteration sale of Redlick's in this issue.

Jackson merchants are endeavoring to get their supply of heavy goods in before winter commences in earnest. The opinion is freely expressed that in the event of a severe winter the Ione road will be almost impassable. In fact, freighters assert that if the winter proves anything like last season, the freight rates from Ione will be more than doubled. The heavy travel of the dry season has cut the road up terribly. There is prospect ahead for still heavier traffic between now and new years, on account of the machinery for the electric plant to be hauled over it. This will handicap the road badly.

There are, therefore, good grounds to apprehend a heavy increase of freight rates, and merchants and others having large consignments are adopting a wise course in preparing to get their goods hauled early in the season. The completion of the railroad by the new year would relieve the situation, but the general opinion is that there is a slim prospect of its completion by that time.

A Power For Good.

The pills that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are Dr. Witt's Little Early Risers. Dr. S. Philpot, of Albany, Ga. says: "During a bilious attack I took one. Small as it was it did me more good than calomel, blue mass or any other pill I ever took and at the same time the effect was pleasant. Little Early Risers are certainly an ideal pill." Sold by City Pharmacy.

PINE GROVE.

A mantle of sadness was thrown over our community by the death of Dorothy, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bradshaw, which occurred at Grass Valley, Amador county, on the 17th of September. Her age was four years and fifteen days. This dear little girl will be missed in the home, in the Sabbath school, and many places where her sweet face had become familiar, and the bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community.

Whence do they come? Those little ones bright, With their locks of silk and their eyes of light; With their lips of pink, and their teeth of pearl, And the halo of heaven in every curl? Only the God who gave them knows Whence each comes, and whither each goes.

And if an angel takes them back, Ere their feet are weary on life's sad track, Ere 'tis his lighted or sorrow has stung, Or their dear ones have gone whom they loved when young, Surely the God who giveth heaven, Loves them as much when taken as when given. Fold then the little hands white and still, And say through thy tears "It is God's will; Wondrous author of life and death, That says as he giveth us pulse and breath, "Suffer the children to come unto me, To abide on my breast through eternity." A. FRIED.

VOLCANO ITEMS.

Our little village has been all astir during the past few days owing to a rumor that the Ione and Eastern Railroad Company expect to extend the road to the extreme eastern portion of the county. Members of the company passed through town last week on their way to Wiley's station, presumably to examine the varied resources of this favored section. If the road reaches us by the 4th of July, 1905, we propose to hold a grand celebration, when Supervisor Grillo will barbecue his best beef, Frank Clute, of the St. George, will run open house, Peter Jonas will act as grand marshal, John F. Clute will orate, Tom Quinn officiate as president, and Joseph Goodrich and Tony Delucchi will see that the engine keeps quiet and does not fly the track until after the passengers alight.

John Grillo is now the happiest man in the state. He is the daddy of a 12-pound boy. He concedes his wife the right to name the young man provided she calls it John Jr., otherwise he proposes to assert his right and do a little naming himself. John was so delighted when he heard it was a boy that he sat down and wrote his wife a letter of congratulation, and the next day came near throwing a traveling evangelist into the watering trough because he refused to drink to the health of the new-come.

Monday week the town was fairly deserted. Every person who could procure a conveyance of any kind attended the burial of little Dorothy Bradshaw at Pine Grove. She was a lovable child, and her parents have the heart-felt sympathy of the entire community.

Geo. Kaffer has secured a 5-years' lease of the Jack Browning farm near Buena Vista, and will take charge in a few weeks. We regret to lose Mr. Kaffer and family, but wish them well in their new venture.

Mrs. Manuel Riestra, who had an eye removed recently by the skillful hand of Dr. Freiman, has returned to her mountain home. The eye cavity was practically well in six days after the operation.

The typhoid epidemic is fast subsiding. The Honneau children, who were the latest victims, are all out again.

Mr. Norris, the barber, is talking of moving his family to one of the valley towns, where he has been offered a permanent position.

Constable Lessley has been walking very dignified of late, and many thought it was owing to the big draw-down he was soon to receive for past services, but he informs us that a few carabuncles have compelled him to be precise in his movements.

Geo. Lucot, of the firm of Lucot and Ford, was taken quite ill last week while visiting at McLaughlin's station, and was unable to return to Jackson for several days.

Dr. Freiman is still formulating plans for his sanitarium, which he proposes to erect early in the spring.

The party given in Armory hall on the 17th was well attended. Many were present from Gleta. Mrs. B. Ross and daughter provided an excellent supper for the occasion.

Mining interests have not relaxed during the summer months, and many prospects have developed into paying properties.

Murphy, Walker, and Griesbach are taking out pay gravel in large quantities from the Grillo claim. As an experiment they recently took out $100 in 9 hours.

Marsino & Sons have worked all summer, and by the first of January they expect to have 2400 carloads of gravel on the dump.

Robinson, McLaughlin, and Glenn have formed themselves into a company to work the Glenn mine. They will use steam power instead of water, which will enable them to work throughout the entire year.

Lessley & Co., of Pioneer, are running their 9-stamp mill steadily, and hope soon to be able to send a good-sized gold brick to the mint.

If the present hopes of some of our young people are finally realized, we may have some interesting news to chronicle soon.

School Notes.

A mock election was held in the principal's room last Friday. The Australian ballot system was used. There were the usual officers of election, ballots, poll and tally lists kept, and candidates named and voted for. Roosevelt was elected president, receiving 29 votes, while his opponent, Parker, received but 16 votes.

The pupils have chosen for the name of their paper the "Jackson School Up-To-Date." The paper will be issued the first Friday of each school month. Whether it will be printed or not is still undecided.

The new drum and flag have been regularly installed at the school. Mrs. Caldwell continues to substitute for Miss Devan in the 4th grade.

AMADOR COUNTY'S GOLD PRODUCERS

KENNEDY.—A visit to the works of the east shaft and mill strongly impresses one with the vastness of mining operations at this noted mine. The new reels of the massive hoist are working to a charm. There has been no trouble whatever since they were installed. They are heavier by ten tons than the reels they displaced. Six furnaces are required to keep the hoist going, leaving three furnaces in reserve for contingencies. Sinking was resumed last week. The shaft is now 2540 feet in perpendicular depth, including a sump of 50 feet. It is the intention to sink 300 feet deeper. The sinking will not interfere with mining operations in the least. The mill will be kept running to its full capacity. A small engine has been placed at the 1800 level to hoist the dirt to that point, from whence it can easily be sent to the surface without any interference with other operations. The 40-stamp addition to the milling capacity is making good headway. The building is all inclosed; the mortar blocks are completed, and the work of putting the machinery in place will be started next week, when the cement foundations have sufficiently set.

The concentrators are on the ground, although much of the work on this floor remains to be done. A dynamo line is provided at the south end of the mill, corresponding to the one at the north end which supplies the power for the 60 stamps now in motion. The 40-stamp addition will be operated as an independent mill, having its own motive power. H. G. Murray, who has charge of the construction work, expects to have all the stamps going some time in December.

A large machine and blacksmith shop has been built just east of the shaft. One side of this will be used for blacksmith shop, and the other for machine shop. The present blacksmith shop will be done away with. The machine shop addition is to enable all kinds of repair work to be done on the ground. It will include lathe, steam hammer, band saw, etc.

The democrat representatives of the eleventh assembly district met in San Andreas Wednesday last and nominated H. A. Messenger of Gwin mine for assemblyman of this district, composed of Amador, Calaveras, Alpine and Mono counties. This action was in conformity with a pre-arranged program. The nominee is not regarded as a strong man politically. He has been in the legislature before, having represented Calaveras county many years ago. We understand he is now in the east, but will return in a few days and make the canvass. It is a case of weakness on either side, in which neither candidate is likely to command his party vote. The strong republican margin in the district favors McKenney, the republican nominee, who is badly handicapped by his record of disregard of the state constitution.

A Farewell Party.

The members and friends of the M. E. church assembled in the church Monday evening to tender the retiring pastor, Rev. J. W. Phelps, and his family a farewell party, on the eve of their departure for another sphere of labor. There was a very large attendance, over 100 being present. This sufficiently attests the appreciation of the congregation for the ministerial services of the past year. The evening was pleasantly passed in short addresses befitting the occasion. The Rev. Phelps and family left Jackson Wednesday morning for Oroville, Butte county, to which charge he has been assigned for the coming year.

A Record Breaker

The rain and thunderstorm which started in on the 22d of September and continued until Monday stands without any parallel in this section for the month of September since we have kept a record of the weather conditions. September is considered a summer month, and a part of the rainless season. A slight sprinkling is the utmost that we look for that month. As often as otherwise no rainfall is experienced. This year, however, the storm we have experienced would be considered heavy even in midwinter. And it seems to have visited every portion of the state. In many places the downpour has been much greater than here. In Jackson the rainfall for the season is as follows:

Aug. 16	0.16
Sept. 22	0.24
" 24	0.66
" 25	1.21
" 26	0.80
" 28	0.06
Total.	3.13

In the mountains a heavy fall of snow has occurred. The stockmen whose ranges are well up toward the summit, will have difficulty in getting their stock out. Several feet of snow is reported to have fallen in the high Sierras. Up to this time last year no rain had fallen along the mining belt. The storm is likely to cause some damage to the grape crop, especially if succeeded by frosts. The grapes are liable to burst, thereby impairing their market value. Otherwise the rain ought to help the farmers. It is sufficient to start plowing, and enable the ranchers to get their ground in condition for early seeding.

FROM SUTTER CREEK.

Stub Pen has become very stubby. Don't be afraid Stub Pen, those people you hit so hard won't do anything worse than shoot you at sight, and you know the pen is mightier than the sword, so you can probably defend yourself. I thought from the way people noticed one or two of your articles you might get chesky; but you did not. Your vest fits you still, and now you have let us down real easy. Don't worry about the knockers. Every city and town has its knockers. They keep people from thinking of themselves all of the time. Some one said "It was good for a dog to have a reasonable amount of fleas; it kept him from broodin' on bein' a dog."

The Amador Record seems to be trying to say Sic 'em, in a very ladylike way. It would be refreshing to see that paper stand on both feet and not sprawl all over, trying to please every one. Come, come; be a man, Mrs. Brown.

We have had so much rain that every one feels sort of moist or sloppy so to speak, and to carry it out four of our young men soaked in so much moisture, either rain water or fire water, that some was put a placard on their door, "This is the home of the sloppy four." They are out with shot-guns.

Republican Club Smoker.

The Jackson republican club at its regular meeting night, Tuesday, gave a smoker, which was participated in by from 30 to 40 members. The usual routine business was transacted, and preparations made for the meeting of the campaign on Saturday, October 8, when congressman J. N. Gillette will address the people of Jackson. Committees for this event were appointed as follows:

Reception Committee—V. S. Garbarini, J. F. Davis, C. A. Herrick, A. M. Gall.

On Music—H. E. Kay, C. Schacht, F. Valvo.

On Decorations and Hall—F. LeMoin, W. Schrader, L. J. Fontenrose, and Harvey Clark.

Finance Committee—Dr. Herrick, W. E. Kent, R. Webb, F. A. Voorheis, W. P. Peek.

After the business was transacted those present indulged in a convivial time, enlivened by addresses by Judge Davis and others.
